Energize

The Decade of Double Harvest is both a vision and a strategy. While we at CfaN continue to preach the Gospel to the lost in Africa and wherever the Lord leads us, we also believe that God has called us to raise up many, many evangelists who will take up the mantle and preach the message of salvation all over the world. One of the ways that we invest in these people and in their ministries, is through the CfaN School of Evangelism, a 5-day intensive teaching and mentoring experience intended to energize, equip and launch evangelists.

School of Evangelism

REPORT BY EVANGELINE VANDENBERG

The CfaN School of Evangelism draws people from all over the world. This one was no exception. I was aware that this was something special from the moment we walked in the door and were surrounded by the music of different accents and languages as people hugged one another and introduced themselves. The air was electric with excitement and expectation.

From near and far, young and not so young, it was obvious that here was a group of people who had felt a definite prompting of the Holy Spirit to come to a place where they would be encouraged and empowered in their calling to be evangelists. These were people committed to "Go into all the world and preach the Gospel!" Very often evangelism is treated like an optional extra in the life of a church, so to be with others of like mind is both encouraging and empowering.

Peter Vandenberg, Executive Vice President of the ministry, had this to say about why CfaN has a School of Evangelism: "SoE has actually existed for many years – about 35 in fact – but the format right now is the most effective it has ever been. We have it because we believe the ministry goes forward on two legs: one is preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the unsaved, and the other leg is enabling, helping and instructing others to do the same. That is what the School is all about – multiplication of this vital ministry."

HERE ARE A FEW REACTIONS TO THIS SOE...

The reason why we are here is because ever since we heard about SoE, we felt God leading us to attend. One of the most important lessons we take with us is to hold the name of Jesus high in our preaching, to be focused on Him and not the opinions of men. We also know that we need to BE taught before we can teach others.

My wife and I run a ministry called Jesus Burgers, feeding people on a daily basis. I came because I was invited by a friend. It has been like a "honeymoon" somehow and I have fallen more deeply in love with Jesus and who He is. More than ever, I understand that Jesus is the ULTIMATE evangelist!

I came to SoE for three things – impartation to impact the nations, an encounter with God’s heart so that mine can be in union with His, and to go back with the love to love everyone I meet. I take these home with me.

We came to SoE because we felt that we have so much to learn from Christ for all Nations and we believed that the impartation would expand us into what we need to preach the Gospel effectively where we are. God has met with us.

I came to SoE with one specific aim – to say thank you for the deposit into my life many years ago in Mombasa. It launched me into ministry in a wonderful way. I am a witness to what is possible in God.

We were privileged to have many dynamic and effective speakers. The lineup was impressive: Daniel Kolenda, lead evangelist for CfaN, who has led millions to the foot of the cross in our Great Gospel Campaigns; Peter Vandenberg, who brings years of experience to the school, motivating and challenging; Dr. Chauncey Crandall, noted heart surgeon with a passion for praying for the sick – even on the operating table; Paula White, a powerful well-known pastor, social activist and philanthropist; Todd White, who lives and breathes Lifestyle Evangelism; Eric Gilmour and Michael Koulianos with their profound emphasis on the need for a personal worship life; Brian Guerin with his deep understanding of the prophetic; and Harvey Katz, successful businessman with a lively and vibrant approach to personal evangelism.

One of the miracles of the work of the Holy Spirit is how unique His dealings are with each person. This was very evident from the rich time of testimony that concluded this school. It was deeply moving to hear how very specific God was, how He increased the purpose and passion of each participant.

We all left with the sense that something remarkable had taken place and we fully expect the echo to go on and on, as people reach out to those around them with the Good News, those who so desperately need to hear the old but always new story of God’s love for man - “Jesus saves, Jesus heals, Jesus delivers”!
